SHIPPING MINISTRY IN INDIA PROPOSES AMENDMENT TO 110 YEAR-OLD INDIAN PORTS ACT

The Shipping Ministry has proposed establishing a national council for structured growth and development of the port sector in the draft Indian Ports Bill.

The proposed bill seeks to amend The Indian Ports Act, 1908 with the intent of empowering and establishing State Maritime Boards. The changes are targeted towards effective administration, control and management of non-major ports in India. These boards will also provide for adjudicatory mechanisms for redressal of port related disputes.

An official statement said the existing act is more than 110 years old and it needs to be revamped for reflecting the present-day frameworks. This draft bill proposes to repeal and replace the existing 1908 Act.

The bill also proposes to promote integrated planning between States inter-se and Centre-States through a consultative and recommendatory framework.

The proposed bill will homogenize and streamline the development of the maritime sector. It will incorporate State Maritime Boards in the national framework," the statement said.

The Maritime State Development Council will ensure cooperative federalism where Centre and State and Union Territory Governments will work together towards preparing progressive road map for the country," it added.
